

The European Institute of Sophia University and the Faculty of Liberal Arts at Saitama University are pleased to announce an international seminar:

“The Evolution of Russian Culture in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries: Perspectives from East and West”

The seminar will be held at Sophia University, Tokyo on January 25 (Sa), 2014. The aim of the seminar is to reflect on the evolution of the Russian culture of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries in terms of such themes as conservatism, the tradition of Platonic ontology in Russian philosophy and literature, the Sovieticity in post-communist Russian society. We will work on these topics through a dialogue of several traditions of Russian studies by inviting presenters from Russia, Ukraine, Korea and Japan. We are looking forward to seeing many guests and creating an open and fruitful discussion.
